Foreword

Assorted spools of different threads are nothing without a framework, a loom to guide them into the appropriate design and strength. However, a structure in itself cannot function long without a controlling force, a continuous supply of raw materials, a set of gears, levers and wheels and periodic maintenance; that is, to run smoothly and efficiently there must be a team of forces all working cooperatively for the best possible product: a bright, varied and durable fabric.

We, the spools of thread in this framework--this loom of learning--are daily examples of this system. We could not emerge as ready for our future uses as we do, without our controlling force, the administration; the gears, the faculty; the maintenance, our personnel; and especially the processes through which we gain strength, brightness, durability--the processes which add the highlight to the fabric--our activities.

As you glance through this book, we hope you will become aware of the fact that each day is, indeed, like a "thread, woven into the fabric of life." Here, now, is our loom-----

Administration

Mr. Wilson pauses to give personal assistance.

Dear Seniors,

The theme of the Legend this year - "Each day is a thread woven into the fabric of life" - could well stimulate each of us to place a value on each day of our lives.

A thread is insignificant by itself. It doesn't occupy much space. It doesn't create much form. It doesn't reveal a design. It is not admired. It doesn't receive recognition until the weaver fashions it along with many other threads into a fabric. The larger the number of threads, the greater the variety of colors, the complexity of design, the attention to weaving, all determine the quality of the fabric and the admiration it receives.

Each day standing alone doesn't mold great form, doesn't produce noble individuals, doesn't perfect great artists nor place great statesmen on the horizon of time. They do, added together with temperateness and careful design, produce individuals worthy of our admiration. They do slowly after the design of a life. It is therefore important that the value of our daily activities be worthwhile and that they contribute some valuable "threads" to the fabric of our lives.

We are counting on you to be a reputable weaver.

Sincerely,
Roy D. Wilson

To the Underclassmen:

The texture and design, as well as the durability and beauty of a fabric are dependent upon the weaver's wisdom in selecting the fibers. Analogous to the process of weaving fabric is the building of a useful, enriched, and happy life.

The experiences encountered in daily living, the knowledge and understandings acquired as we journey through life provide the foundation for weaving a cloth of strength and quality.

Regrettably, it is not the individual's prerogative to select all the threads for the fabric of his life. The warp, the threads lengthwise in a loom, are fixed firmly in place by virtue of heredity and environment. The person himself, none the less, is the weaver of the strands which cross the warp, which give pattern, form, and meaning to the finished product.

Among the variety of materials from which the weaver makes his selection are the quality fibers - compassion, charity, love, humility, tolerance, self-discipline, loyalty, integrity, dependability, foresight, cooperation, patience, responsibility, fairness, understanding, humor, appreciation, and wisdom. The life that is woven of these golden threads is one of stability in the face of emotional strain, of direction amid chaos, of understanding despite oppression, of self-respect in an atmosphere of derision, of serenity though encompassed by confusion, and of successes built on failures.

"A thing of beauty is a joy forever," wrote Keats.

Choose each thread wisely as you weave so that the priceless fabric of your life will be a "thing of beauty."

Sincerely,
J. William Riden

This year another force aiding the weaving of the fabric of life made its appearance at Chief Logan High School--the Key Club.

Key Club International is the high school counterpart of Kiwanis International. Like its parent organization, it devotes its energies toward service. In its brief initial year, the Chief Logan High School Key Club has engaged in projects of service to other students, the school, and the community.

The Chief Logan High School Key Club owes a debt of gratitude to the Lewistown Kiwanis Club and to the Lewistown-Granville Key Club. These clubs assisted the formation and growth of our club.

Under the capable leadership of freshman Coach Donald Parson, the Mingo basketball team completed one of the finest seasons in the history of our school by compiling a 19-3 record, including 18 consecutive wins in the Tri-Valley League.

The most significant win of the first cycle of Tri-Valley action came in the first game, when the Mingoes defeated Rothrock 49-46. Two of the three winning points came on foul shots after the final buzzer.

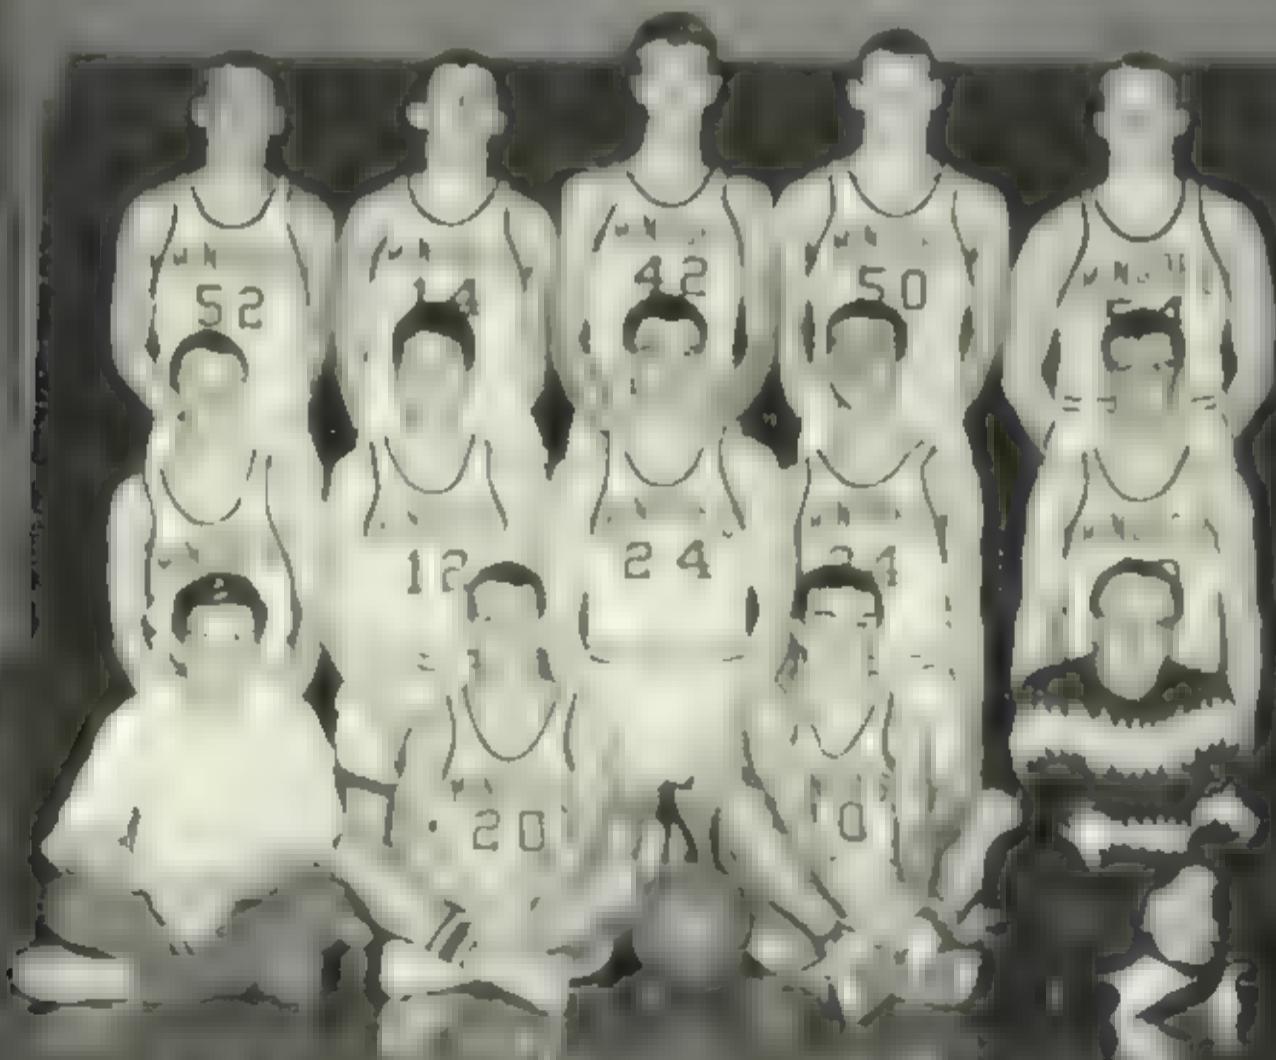

The second cycle of the league was as difficult as the first and, again, the most important win was the first. This time the Mingoes won on Rothrock's court by one point 60--59, victorious when an Eagle player missed the second shot of a one-and-one foul situation in the last six seconds. The most pleasant win occurred when the Mingoes defeated Kishacoquillas in a game billed to be close and possibly a stumbling in Chief's quest for Tri-Valley supremacy. However, the Parson men were not to be denied as they thumped Kish 81-49. After that victory, the Mingoes won the remaining games and the league crown in their last year as a Tri-Valley League team, as Chief Logan will enter the Mountain League next year.

Congratulations are extended to Coach Parson and the team for a great season.

1964 Football Season

Chief Logan High School opened the 1964 season by traveling to Mount Union to meet an always-strong Captain Jack 11. After four hard quarters of football the Mingoes begrudgingly gave up a 16-7 victory to the Trojans. This was the only defeat of the season for the Mingoes.

A vision of things to come was shown when a fired-up band of Mingoes met the Little Lions of State College at Yeagertown. Because the game was played on a rain-swept field, defense became the order of the day. Chief's defense proved the better as the Mingoes recorded an 8-7 triumph.

The Prisutamen journeyed to Hollidaysburg on September 25 to do battle with the Golden Tigers. Chief gained its second consecutive victory by edging Hollidaysburg 7-6.

Following a week's layoff the Mingoes again were on the road. Houtzdale was the scene of the encounter between Chief Logan and Moshannon Valley. The Black Knights were determined, but the Mingo offense was much too powerful as they racked up a 50-0 victory.

On October 17 the Mingoes were again at home and the rain again made its presence known. In their fourth consecutive victory of the season, Chief Logan thwarted the hopes of a Bald Eagle Area team by whipping them 19-0. A strong defense gave up only 2 yards net gain on the ground and none in the air.

Setting the stage for the big game with Lewistown, the Mingo gridders were on the road to tangle with the Jersey Shore Bulldogs. This was the first meeting between the teams. The Chief eleven ground out a 14-0 victory. This game marked the fourteenth straight quarter in which the outstanding Mingo defense hadn't yielded a point.

As usual, the Lewistown game was the highlight of the season. It was a game extremely well-played by both sides. However, when the final whistle blew, Chief was on top by a 19-7 score. This set the record at six victories and one defeat.

On November 7 it was an upset-minded Bearcat team which journeyed to Mingoeland. But the Mingoes weren't to be denied as they drove to a 26-12 decision over Huntingdon.

The final game of the 1964 season was a fitting conclusion to a great year. Chief Logan ran wild and scored at will blasting the Juniata Joint Indians 51-7.

Thus, the 1964 football season can be summed up in these words: "It takes a great football team to win all of its games but it's a greater team which, after losing its first game, bounces back to win the rest."

1965 Varsity Gymnastics Squad 1964

The years of 1964 and 1965 saw the addition of a new sport at Chief Logan High School--Gymnastics. This sport was introduced last year in the form of a club and enthusiasm proved so great that a varsity team was started.

Under the coaching of Mr. Powell, the team participated successfully in dual-meet competition. In addition, they have tumbled at football games, put on exhibitions in the school and in the community, and entered Amateur Athletic Union tournaments.

We welcome this sport to Chief Logan as another weaver, strengthening the fabric of life.

After the 1964-65 wrestling season came to a close, the matmen of Coach Charles Roselle and the rest of the student body looked back at another successful season. Even though their dual meet record was seven wins and seven defeats, they placed second in the annual Jaycees Tournament and won the Tri-Valley League Championship.

On December 29, 1964, the Mingoes entered the Second Annual Lewistown-Mifflin County Jaycees Tournament for the first time. The following night the Mingoes finished in second place, five points behind a very strong Woodrow Wilson team. First-place winners for the Chief were Charles Faust 103, Bill Johnston 112, and Dave Wray 127.

This year the Mingoes won the Tri-Valley League Championship. Woody Johnston, our fine 112 pounder, set a new school record by compiling 25 consecutive dual meet victories.

Last year the Chief Logan track team enjoyed its most successful season in the team's history.

They defeated Huntingdon and took first place in the Mifflin County Track Meet, which included Kishacoquillas, Lewistown, and Chief Logan. The team took second at the Bellwood-Antis Night Invitational Meet against eleven other schools. Another second was gained at a triangular meet with Lock Haven and Tyrone. The Mingo leg-men placed third at the State College Invitational Meet while competing against four other schools, and also third at the Jersey Shore Triangular Meet. The Lewistown track team tied us at a dual meet to round off a record of two firsts, three seconds, two thirds, and one tie. This is a great record for a new coach, Mr. Matthews, and a team with no track practice facilities.

Class History of 1965

In 1953 the present Senior Class originated. Six years later we took our first step toward unity. At this time we met our fellow classmates with whom we were to spend the next six years, sharing joy in our triumphs and sorrow in our defeats.

Throughout those years in junior high we stabilized the foundation of our education, therefore limiting our extra-curricular activities to sports, band, chorus, and the annual Christmas Dance.

As sophomores we were faced with the momentous decision of choosing the course that would best suit our needs in the future.

Our class trip to Washington was an unforgettable experience high-lighting our final years with historic splendor.

We chose our class colors, royal blue and light gray, and ordered our class rings, hats, pennants, and other traditional items.

Our Junior class play "Tammy Tell Me True" proved to be a smash hit providing us with the finances needed to make our Prom a success. For this special dance we chose the theme "Bali Hai"; we were the first class to use the inner court as the setting.

At last we were starting our final year. Our play this year, "Thunder on Sycamore Street," provided us with a meaningful lesson in tolerance.

Graduation is at hand and we highly esteem our many talented classmates in scholastic standings, dramatics, music, arts, and athletics.

With humble hearts we thank and acknowledge the faculty and administration for the patience, understanding, and guidance given to us in our years at C. L. H. S.

We face the on-coming years with courage, and hope that our efforts will help to bring peace to man-kind throughout the world

Epilogue

Now as we are ready to emerge from the loom, our patterns nearly completed, we reflect upon the total of our experiences of the last six years. Were it not for the efficient harmony of each component of the system, our fabrics would be less complete--hardly as bright and pleasant as they are.

The Class of 1965 has many unseen threads in its fabric which are nonetheless, necessary for the days ahead. The durability and longevity of this class will be attributed to the struggles and anticipations which we have endured. We will leave the loom of C. L. H. S. to test this durability as we put our fabrics to use.

Many of us will continue to add to our fabrics as we study for more specialized uses. Our fabrics will ultimately be found in industries, hospitals, courts of law, schools and the other places requiring more refined and finished materials. But those of us whose fabrics will end in June will not cease to change. Their patterns and surfaces may be either enhanced or defiled, depending, of course, on those unseen basic strengths acquired in the loom of C. L. H. S.

Therefore, each of us will have definite, although quite different, thoughts as we say for the last time:

*For here's to the Chief Logan,
Long may you reign supreme.*

The members of the Legend Staff wish to take this means of expressing their appreciation to all the very generous people who helped make this yearbook a financial success.

The fifth stage involved a series of semi-structured interviews with 12 men aged between 51 and 70 years old. The participants were recruited through advertisements placed in local newspapers and through word of mouth.

The sixth stage involved a series of semi-structured interviews with 12 women aged between 51 and 70 years old. The participants were recruited through advertisements placed in local newspapers and through word of mouth.

The seventh stage involved a series of semi-structured interviews with 12 men aged between 71 and 90 years old. The participants were recruited through advertisements placed in local newspapers and through word of mouth.

The eighth stage involved a series of semi-structured interviews with 12 women aged between 71 and 90 years old. The participants were recruited through advertisements placed in local newspapers and through word of mouth.

Quantitative methods

Surveys

The first survey was conducted in 1995 and involved a sample of 1000 men and 1000 women aged between 18 and 50 years old. The participants were recruited through advertisements placed in local newspapers and through word of mouth.

The second survey was conducted in 1996 and involved a sample of 1000 men and 1000 women aged between 18 and 50 years old. The participants were recruited through advertisements placed in local newspapers and through word of mouth.

The third survey was conducted in 1997 and involved a sample of 1000 men and 1000 women aged between 18 and 50 years old. The participants were recruited through advertisements placed in local newspapers and through word of mouth.

The fourth survey was conducted in 1998 and involved a sample of 1000 men and 1000 women aged between 18 and 50 years old. The participants were recruited through advertisements placed in local newspapers and through word of mouth.

The fifth survey was conducted in 1999 and involved a sample of 1000 men and 1000 women aged between 18 and 50 years old. The participants were recruited through advertisements placed in local newspapers and through word of mouth.

The sixth survey was conducted in 2000 and involved a sample of 1000 men and 1000 women aged between 18 and 50 years old. The participants were recruited through advertisements placed in local newspapers and through word of mouth.

The seventh survey was conducted in 2001 and involved a sample of 1000 men and 1000 women aged between 18 and 50 years old. The participants were recruited through advertisements placed in local newspapers and through word of mouth.

The eighth survey was conducted in 2002 and involved a sample of 1000 men and 1000 women aged between 18 and 50 years old. The participants were recruited through advertisements placed in local newspapers and through word of mouth.

Statistical analysis

Qualitative methods

The qualitative data was analysed using thematic analysis techniques. The transcripts were read and re-read by the researcher to gain an overall impression of the data. The transcripts were then broken down into smaller units of meaning, known as themes. These themes were then grouped together into larger categories, known as concepts.

The concepts were then used to identify patterns and trends in the data. This process was iterative, with the researcher constantly returning to the transcripts to refine the themes and concepts.

The final stage of the qualitative analysis involved the development of a report that summarised the key findings of the research. This report included a summary of the themes and concepts identified, along with a discussion of the implications of the findings for practice.

The quantitative data was analysed using descriptive statistics. The data was summarised using measures such as mean, median, mode, and standard deviation. The data was also presented in tables and graphs to facilitate interpretation.

The results of the quantitative analysis were compared across the eight surveys to identify trends and changes over time. This analysis involved the use of statistical tests such as t-tests and ANOVA.

The final stage of the quantitative analysis involved the development of a report that summarised the key findings of the research. This report included a summary of the descriptive statistics, along with a discussion of the implications of the findings for practice.

The report also included recommendations for future research, based on the findings of the study.

The report concluded with a summary of the key findings of the research, along with a discussion of the implications of the findings for practice.

and the first two were the most frequently used. The third was used by 10% of the respondents, and the fourth by 1%. The fifth was not used at all.

The results of the survey are presented in Table 1. The first column shows the number of respondents who used each of the five methods. The second column shows the percentage of respondents who used each method. The third column shows the mean age of the respondents who used each method. The fourth column shows the median age of the respondents who used each method. The fifth column shows the range of ages of the respondents who used each method.

The results show that the mean age of the respondents who used each method was approximately 30 years. The median age was approximately 28 years. The range of ages was approximately 18 to 45 years. The results also show that the percentage of respondents who used each method was approximately 80%, 10%, 10%, 1%, and 0% respectively.

The results of the survey suggest that the most commonly used method of birth control is the condom. The second most commonly used method is the oral contraceptive pill. The third most commonly used method is the intrauterine device. The fourth most commonly used method is the diaphragm. The fifth most commonly used method is the condom.
